EXPANDING ENGINEERING HORIZONS

Apex Engineering Solutions Enters Middle East Market

HERNDON, VA – January 9, 2007 - Apex Engineering Solutions, a division of Apex CoVantage, a leading provider of knowledge process outsourcing (KPO) solutions, announced today that it has been awarded two contracts, one in Bahrain, and another in Dubai. This marks the company's entry into the growing Middle East market for quality engineering services.

Apex will deploy a team of highly experienced Mechanical and Electrical Engineers, as well as CAD Technicians in Bahrain under this contract. Working closely with the client firm, the team will gather and complete 'As Built' data on MEP services, including Mechanical (HVAC, Plumbing, Drainage, Fire Protection) and Electrical (small power, lighting and extra low voltage) from an existing large public facility. The team will also verify all site measurements and prepare AutoCAD drawings on all MEP services for the client.

"We are very excited about the opportunity to work with one of Bahrain's oldest and most distinguished Architectural Engineering firms," said Kevin Dougherty, President of Apex Engineering Solutions. "We hope it will lead to a long and profitable partnership for us both."

Apex will also be providing design and drawing services including HVAC, electrical, plumbing and fire safety engineering for a multi-story building project in Dubai that will cover close to one million square feet of commercial space.

"Engineering companies have long experienced serious shortages in qualified engineering talent," adds Raju Penmatcha, CEO, Apex Knowledge Technology. "Apex can provide senior engineers and technicians and bring them up to speed faster with considerably less expense than companies could do it themselves."

Apex Engineering Solutions provides top MEP, structural, architectural and geospatial engineers and technicians to top engineering, construction, utilities, telecommunications and government agencies around the globe.
